

Going to the Fair?

PENNSYLVANIA

invites you

TO STOP AWHILE ENROUTE

TO THE NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR

FACTS you'll want to know about the Great World's Fair

FACTS you ought to know about Penn's "Land-of-the-Forest"

Opens April 30, 1939—the 150th Anniversary of Washington's inauguration in New York City. Symbolizes "the World of Tomorrow," embraces 1216½ acres; represents a total cost of about $150,000,000; expected to attract 60,000,000 visitors; illustrates, in the 200-foot Perisphere and 700-foot Tylon—theme center of the Fair—two types of structures never before built. Exhibitors will include all the principal industries, most of the States, and practically every nation of consequence—YOU CAN TOUR THE WORLD WITHIN THE CONFINES OF THE FAIR!

Six main highways, three subways, one surface line and one railroad lead directly to the grounds; there are boat docks on Flushing Bay, and five nearby landing fields for planes. Running time from Central Manhattan varies from 14 minutes by rail to 25 minutes by car, and there is parking space on the grounds for 35,000 cars.

Every thought has been given to your convenience and safety. 80 restaurants, capable of caring for 250,000 guests, will dot the grounds. 10 First Aid stations, equipped with ambulances, and staffed with hundreds of physicians, surgeons and nurses, will be provided.* You can even "check" the youngsters in the huge "Children's World," where they'll have competent supervision, everything imaginable to play with—even opportunity for meals and repose.

Pennsylvania, the "Keystone State" in the arch of the original 13 colonies, leads all the states in historic interest. Here, in Philadelphia, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution were written and signed, and the First Continental Congress convened. Here, also, the Liberty Bell reposes, and the first American Flag saw the light of day.

Where else will you find such patriotic shrines as Gettysburg, Valley Forge, Brandywine, Forty-fort, Washington's Crossing, Braddock's Grave, Fort Mifflin, Fort Duquesne, Bushy Run, Presque Isle—such memorable figures as Franklin, Robert Morris, Mad Anthony Wayne, Betsy Ross, Mollie Pitcher, Daniel Boone, Washington, Lee, Meade, Commodore Perry?

Rich agriculturally, and an industrial giant—the world's center of the steel, coal, oil, glass, slate and cement industries—Pennsylvania also counts scenic beauty among its greatest assets. Nearly half the state is still forest—covering the rolling slopes of the Pocono, Blue Ridge and Allegheny Mountains—bordering the lovely valleys of the Ohio Watershed, Juniata, Susquehanna and Delaware Rivers. Here are the unequalled recreational facilities of 28 great State Forest Parks, and such hunting and fishing as the pioneers enjoyed. YOU'LL ENJOY PENNSYLVANIA, TOO!

The Peace Memorial on the Gettysburg Battlefield

Pennsylvania's Grand Canyon, Harrison State Park, Wellsboro

*See the World's Fair and Pennsylvania
in one grand trip*

ARTHUR H. JAMES

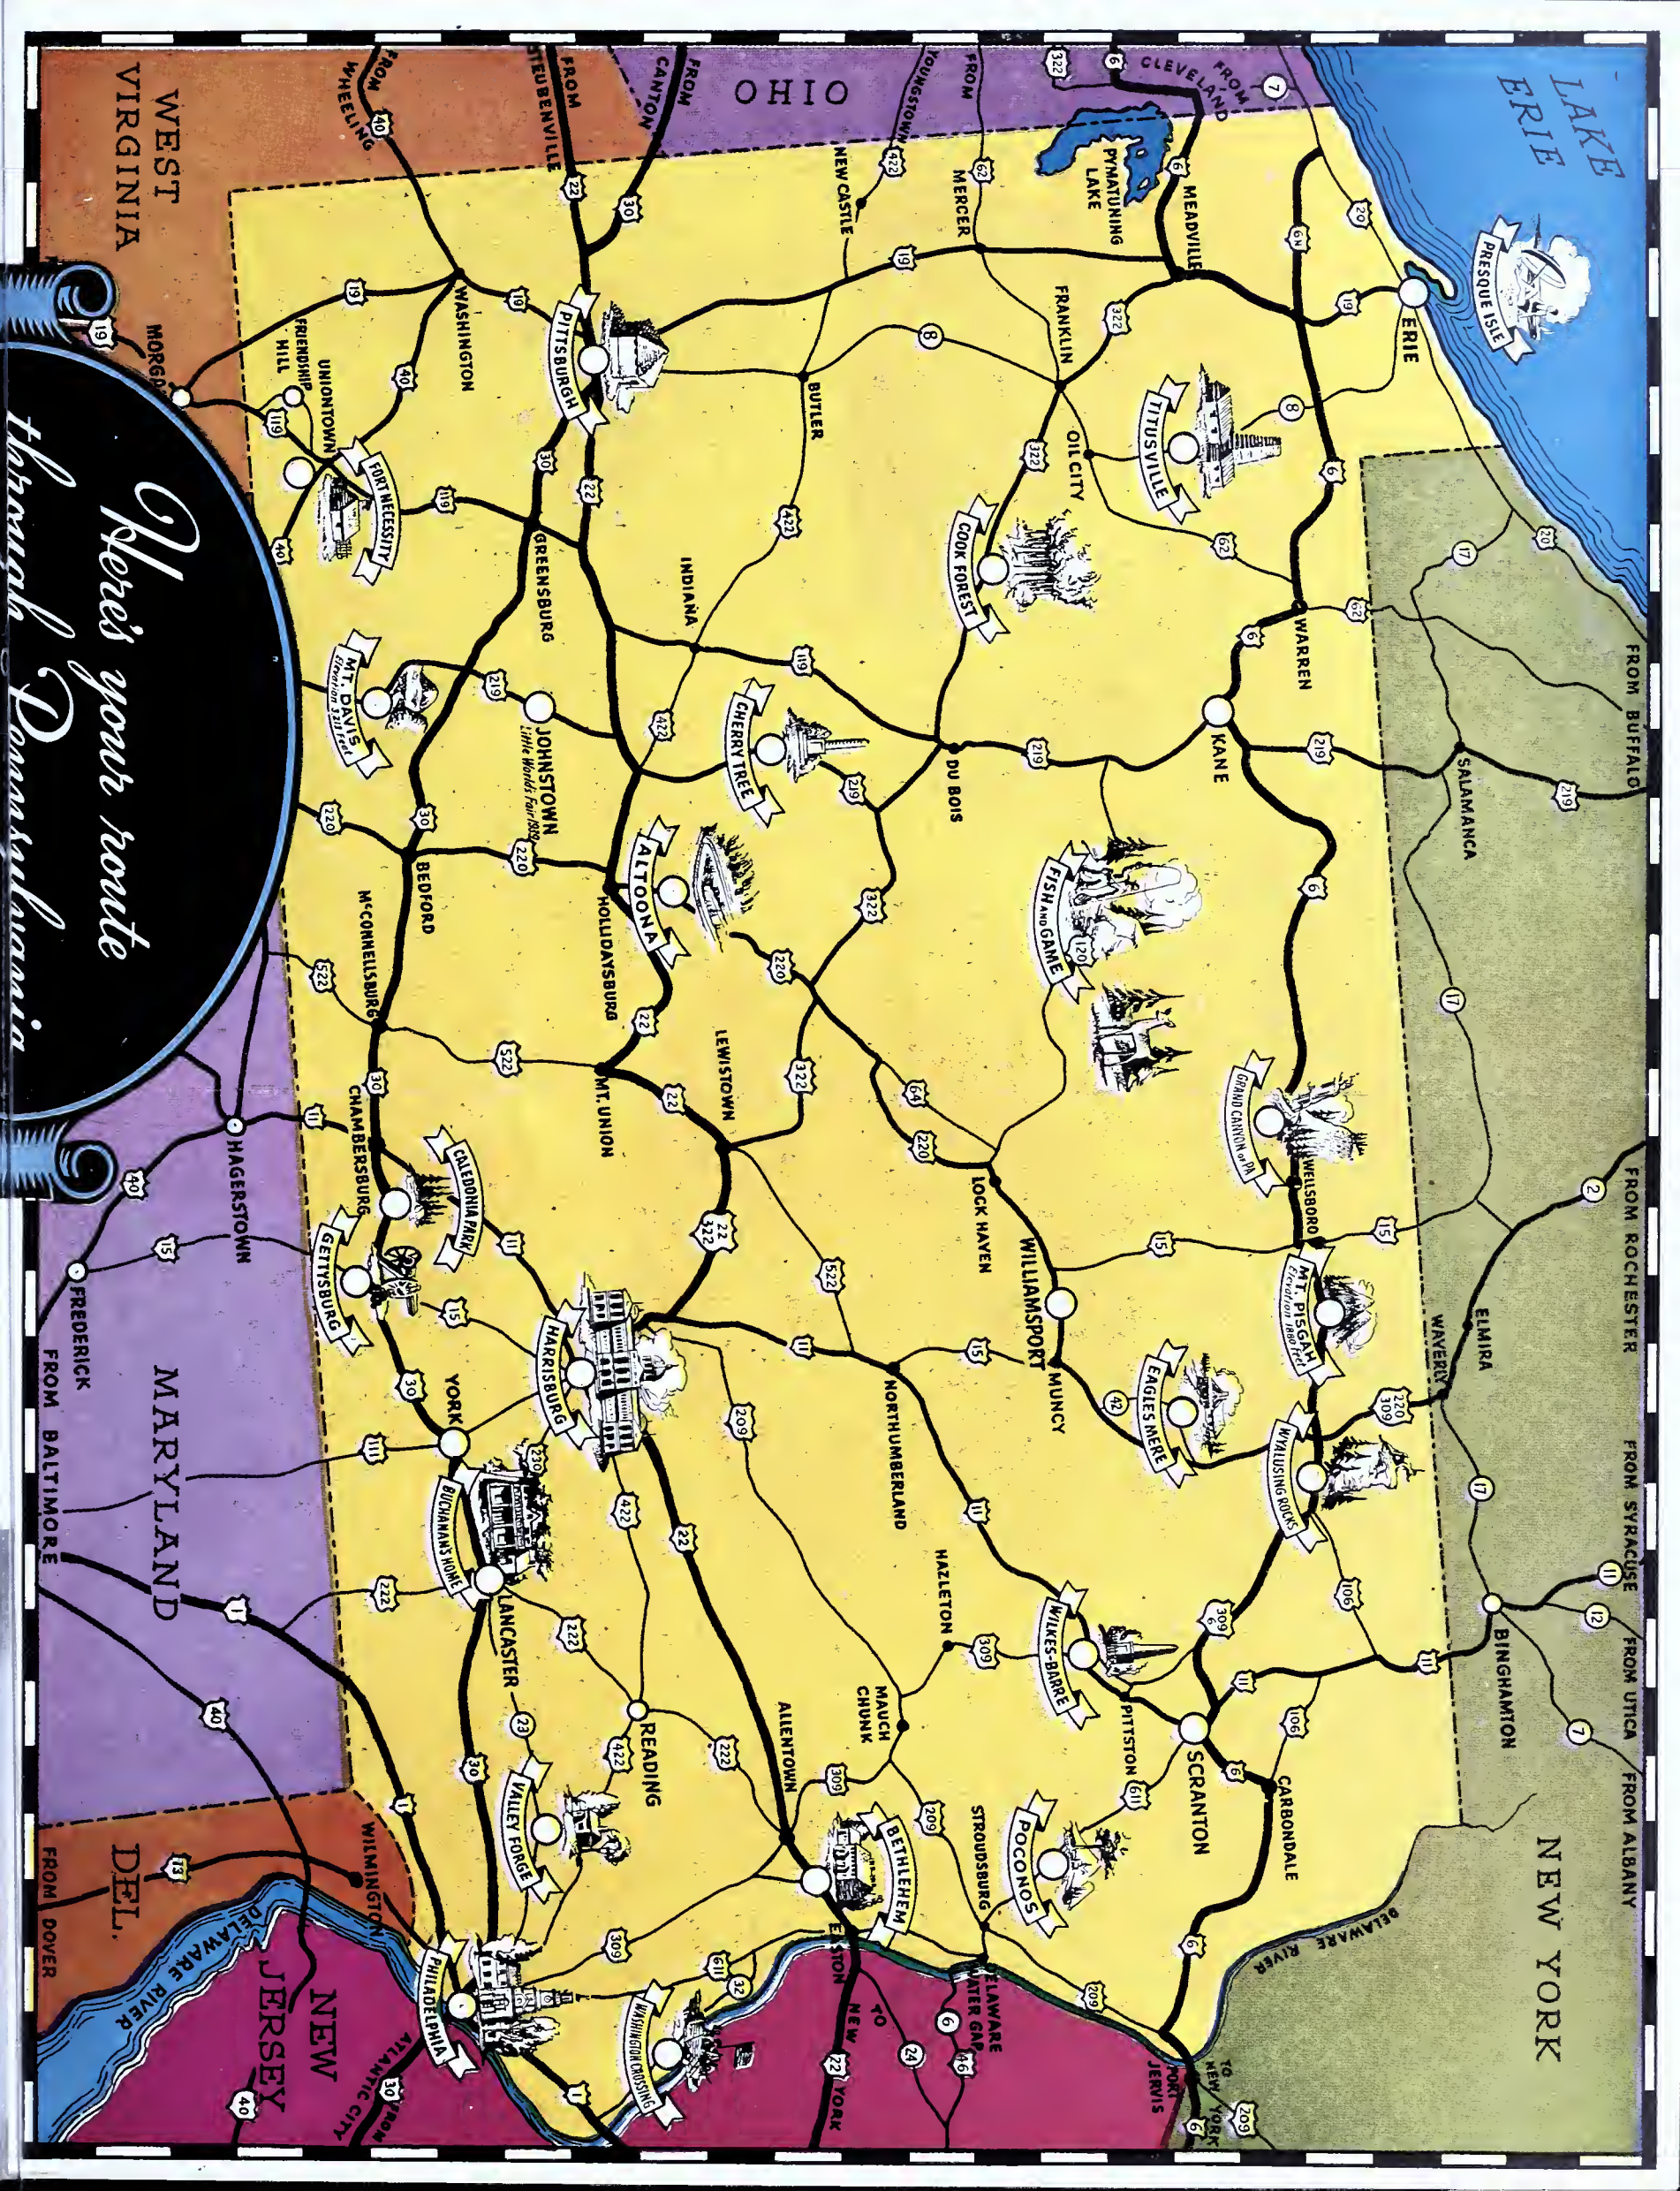

Governor of the State of Pennsylvania
Pennsylvania State Publicity Commission
Harrisburg, Pa.

Independence Hall, Philadelphia. The Pennsylvania Building at the World's Fair is a replica of this famous old structure.

Pennsylvania's wise and provident Fish and Game Commission sees that there's plenty of trout and other game fish.

In Spring, world-famous displays of mountain laurel hedge the upland trails. In Fall, thousands come to see the foliage.

Here's your route
through Pennsylvania

St

oing to, or coming from the great

The mountain highways offer a breath-taking succession of beautiful, far away views

New York World's Fair

tarry awhile in

Pennsylvania

We'll serve you a banquet of splendid scenery and highways —

Enjoy the nation's finest road system — 40,000 miles of modern highways, many thousands more of improved by-ways friendly hospitality and fine food—forests, mountains, lakes—everything that's good for you. Rest your mind and body, and your pocketbook too!

You'll find every sort of outdoor sport in Pennsylvania's great State Parks

Panorama in beautiful Valley Forge

The famous National Cemetery, Gettysburg

Snug cabin in a State Forest Park

See America's
most versatile state
...You're always welcome

PY P9769.2 G615

Going to the Fair?

PENNSYLVANIA

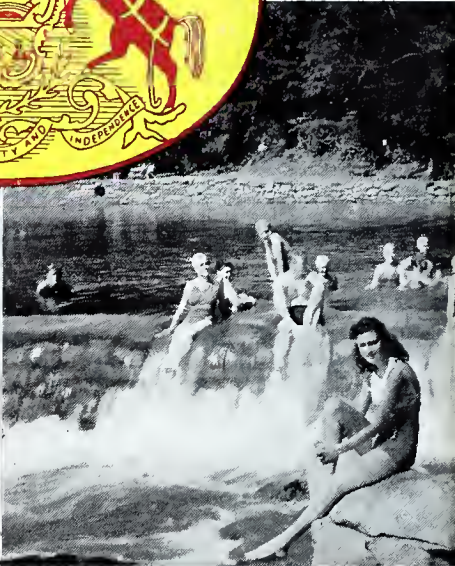

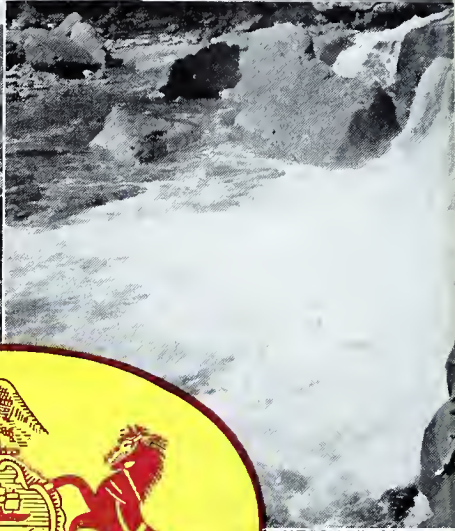

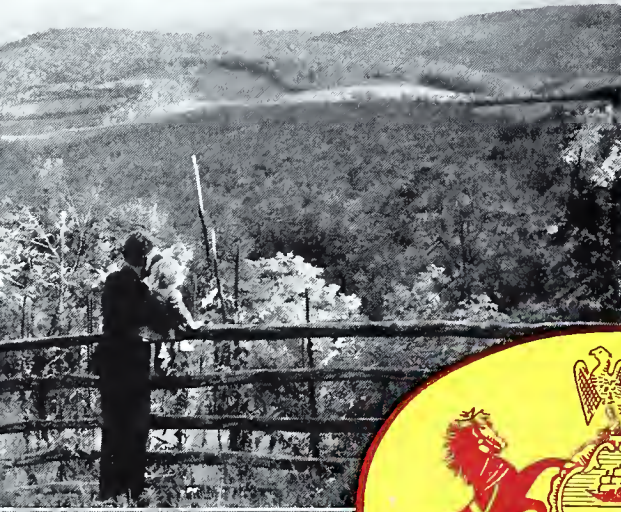

invites you

TO STOP AWHILE ENROUTE

SEE Pennsylvania

THE SCENIC STAT

SEE Pennsylvania
THE SCENIC STATE